

November 2020

Dear Parent or Guardian,

I am writing to you about the subject choices for your son or daughter. Next September your child will move from 16 subjects to 11. Most of these subjects are compulsory but there are three subjects to choose. We are preparing videos about the options, a detailed option book and a workbook for all pupils.

The videos and option book will be released in January and the workbook will be used during form time over the next four months. In addition, there will be a short report for your child which we will release at the end of December and a full report in February.

From late January we are organising opportunities for you to talk with us. During February I will ask each pupil which subjects they would like to take for the three options. Then I will create the groups of option subjects.

Finally, in March I will ask pupils to make three choices of subjects to study until leaving school. These subjects will give the pupils access to the certificates that they need to move onto college, sixth form, work or apprenticeships.

We will check that the options are appropriate for each child and as part of this checking we will speak with each child and with parents/guardians.

Yours sincerely,

C Burden
